Little Action On Korean Battle Front Reported

Bad Weather Causes Lull In Important Activity In West

By ROBERT SCHAKNE

(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 8—(Wednesday)—Allied action on the Korean battlefield Monday was limited to light patrols and maintenance of positions in the "unlimited offensive" attack.

The offensive in western Korea was halted by bad weather and restricted visibility. In the east, where weather was better, Allied patrols moved toward Kumsong in front of the United Nations outposts but made little contact with the enemy.

'Nothing Significant'

An Eighth Army spokesman said that "nothing significant" happened during the 24-hour period ending at midnight Monday.

Some Allied patrols struck out more than seven miles ahead of UN lines but failed to meet significant resistance.

This lack of resistance indicated that any major Communist buildup of troops and supplies as has been previously reported is still six to 10 miles north of Allied lines.

The most penetrating patrols operated in the Iron Triangle area above Chonwon. One patrol reconnoitered to a point southwest of Pyongyang where it engaged a Chinese patrol in a short fight. Both patrols fell back after a few minutes but the Allied force took three Chinese prisoners.

Patrol Clashes

The Eighth Army also reported brief patrol clashes in the Koryang area a few miles from the Kaesong cease-fire neutral zone. Other isolated fire fights were reported in the Yonchon area where the Allies have been making their limited objective attack.

On the east coast numerous small patrol clashes were reported. In some cases the Communists employed mortars to support their patrols but the shelling was not heavy enough or accurate enough to prevent the Allies from driving the Red patrols back.

Action appeared to be so light in the immediate future that the Eighth Army announced it was dispensing with its evening communiqué as unnecessary until there is more action on the front.

Aid Is Rushed To Stricken Crew On Ship

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS)—A Coast Guard cutter raced today toward a fever-ridden Italian motorship bound for the port of Charleston with one crewman reported dead and three others dangerously ill from a mystery ailment.

The cutter, laden with medical supplies and a medical officer, was dispatched shortly after the ship with 29 crew members radioed an SOS at dawn yesterday.

Plane Dispatched

Simultaneously a Coast Guard plane was dispatched and parachuted supplies of aureomycin and penicillin to the vessel, the Boring Company's Taurina.

The ship is scheduled to arrive in Charleston tomorrow night. Authorities said it would be kept in the harbor until an investigation could be made.

Early reports indicated the fever may have been caused by contaminated water.

The Taurina is reportedly carrying a cargo of chrome ore from Africa, and was about 500 miles north of Puerto Rico when it radioed for help.

CONGRESSMAN DIES

TOWANDA, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Rep. Wilson D. Gillette (R) Penna., died today at his home in Towanda. He was 71.

Pin Propaganda Label On Russia's 'Peace Offensive'

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The State Department today rejected as a "propaganda trap" Russia's latest proposal for a five-power peace pact and arms limitation.

Department spokesman Michael J. McDermott pointed out that the world has lost confidence in Russia's intention to honor treaty obligations.

By GEORGE DURNO

(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Russia's newest "peace offensive" today was officially branded "sheer propaganda" and unofficially viewed as an indication that the iron curtain is being successfully penetrated.

The state department pinned the propaganda label on Russia's new proposal to ban atomic weapons and strictly limit general world armaments under a five-power non-aggression pact.

Sen. McMahon (D) Conn., chairman of the joint congressional atomic energy committee, suggested that perhaps "we are cracking the iron curtain." In New York, a United Nations spokesman called it an "old hat" repetition of previously rejected Moscow schemes.

Two Gangsters Shot To Death In Los Angeles

Victims Of Gangland Warfare Outbreak In California City

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Two Kansas City gangsters, one of whom had been on the FBI's "most wanted" criminal list, were victims of underworld guns today in a fresh outbreak of gangland warfare in Los Angeles.

Latest targets of gangsters' guns which have blazed at regular intervals in the City of Angels during the past five years, were identified as Anthony Brancato, 36, and Anthony Trombino, 31, slain late last night as they sat in a car parked in front of a Hollywood apartment house.

Brancato, who had played hide and seek with law enforcement agencies since 1934, came off the FBI's "most wanted" list only last June 29 when he surrendered to San Francisco police after seeing his picture and name in a series of articles by International News Service.

The gangland "erasures" were immediately branded as police as another item in the saga of gambler (Continued on Page Two)

U.N. Sources Are Wary Of Soviet's Pact Proposal

Warn That Latest Five-Nation Peace Move May Be Trap

By PIERRE J. HUSS

(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y., Aug. 7.—United Nations sources warned today that Russia's proposal for a five-nation peace pact sounds as off-key as the peace tune sung by the Soviets in 1949 which proved "phony".

U. N. delegates studying the latest bid from Soviet President Nikolai Shvernik to President Truman said the Soviets, if they want to make a settlement, need only take up a standing invitation contained in the general assembly resolution of 1949.

Conditions Cited

The resolution, proposed by Warren Austin, head of the American U. N. delegation, and approved overwhelmingly by the assembly, spelled out the conditions on which peace could be made.

State Income Tax Proposal Appears Lost

(BULLETIN)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The senate finance committee today defeated by a vote of 10-7 a move to report Gov. John S. Fine's proposed state income tax to the floor for an open ballot.

The committee's action in effect kills any chance of the bill getting through this session of the General Assembly.

The committee met almost an hour before balloting on the controversial measure.

Chairman T. Newell Wood (R) Luzern, said he and six other Republicans voted to report the bill to the floor of the senate so that all 50 members of the upper house could be recorded but they were overruled by a combination of five Democrats and five Republicans.

The five Republicans voting against the bill are among the 11 GOP senators who steadfastly have opposed the income levy as a means of halting Fine's proposed $1,220,000,000 budget for the 1951-53 biennium.

There was no indication what the next move will be to solve the tax-budget puzzle holding up final adjournment of the longest session of the General Assembly since Revolutionary war days.

Involved Many More

Cadets cited for expulsion prepared formal charges that the cribbing was a practice that involved many more than the 90, that it extended back to classes already graduated, that the full facts of the case have not been revealed, and that the academy honor system is defective.

But the real blast was expected to come from the "committee for the 90," made up of parents. This group appealed to President Truman to restore their sons to duty and allow them to graduate.

They said in a telegram to the president:

"The dismissal in disgrace and without trial of our 90 sons at the military academy is a travesty on the American idea of justice and a needless waste of the lives of these young men. We petition you to make their punishment fit their crime."

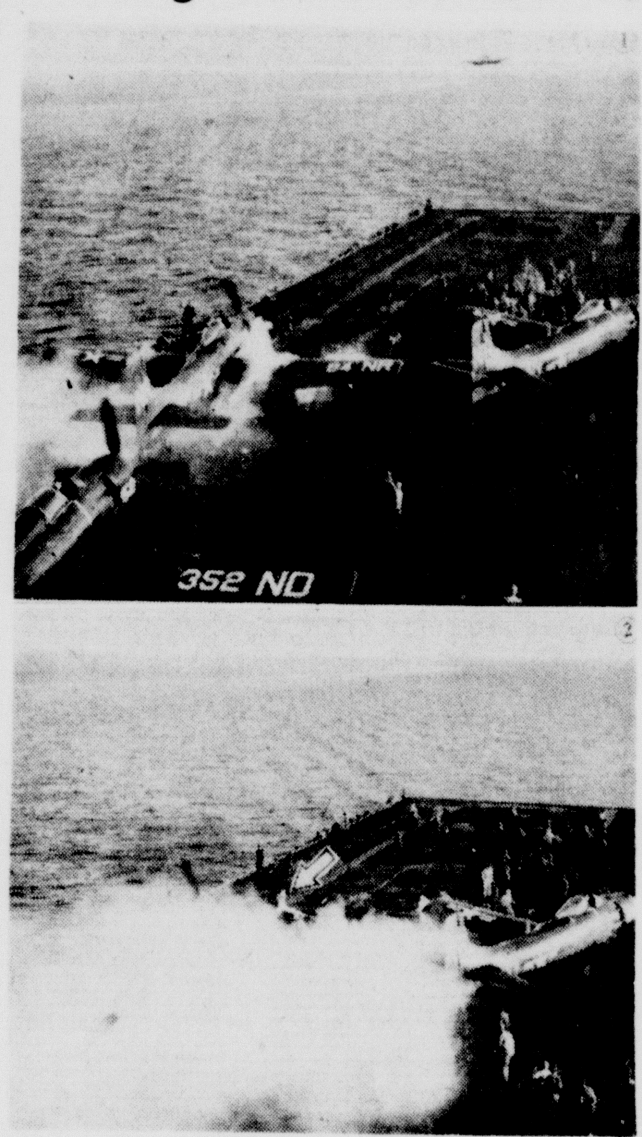

Seek Restoration

"Your order restoring them to duty without discipline subject to proper cadet discipline, permitting them the right to normal graduation and commission, would be appropriate, charitable and a fatherly act of understanding leadership."

"Make it possible for them to repay in service to the nation for the error of their youth. We vouch for these young men. They are our sons."

Senate Probers To Seek Facts At West Point

By PAT ROBINSON

(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Ninety West Point cadets facing expulsion for cribbing eagerly awaited today the arrival of senate investigators and a committee of their parents vowed to expose a "full-grown cancerous condition in the corps."

Chairman Hoey (D) N. C., of the senate investigating subcommittee, said his staff has been instructed to "get the facts" in the case in order to "establish the ground-work" for a possible full-scale probe.

No Response To Gen. Ridgway's Demands As Yet

Stern Message Is Sent To Communists By U.N. Commander

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 7.—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway put the choice of reviving or wrecking the suspended Korean truce conference squarely up to the Communists today.

The United Nations supreme commander, in a stern message, declared he will renew the talks only if the Reds acknowledge that one more violation of Kaesong's neutrality will mean the abortive end of the parley.

Would See 'Deliberate Move'

He warned the enemy leaders he would construe another such infringement as a "deliberate move" to torpedo the conference.

Up until midnight Tuesday night (10 a.m. AM EDT), Red radios had broadcast no response to Ridgway's dramatic message which had been radioed to the Red military chiefs seven hours earlier.

Some observers felt the message might precipitate a break in the deadlock over where to draw an armistice line across Korea.

They reasoned that if the Reds howl to Ridgway's warning that another violation of Kaesong's neutrality would end the talks, the Communists would return to the conference table prepared to retreat from their insistence on a 38th Parallel buffer zone.

By accepting Ridgway's warning the Communists would be indicating they want the negotiations to continue. And the Allies have made it clear the conference could get nowhere unless a "realistic" truce line, mostly above the parallel, is agreed upon.

Rejects Red Explanation

Ridgway rejected a Red explanation that enemy breaches of the demilitarized zone were a "minor, accidental and trivial" He expressed "doubt" of this assertion made to him in a message from the Red commanders.

He bluntly told the Communists that "my acceptance of a resumption of the armistice talks is conditional on complete compliance with your guarantees of the neutralization of the Kaesong area." Then he added:

"Any further failure in this regard will be interpreted as a deliberate move."

New Turnpike Section Open

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—(INS)—An 11 mile portion of the western extension of the Pennsylvania turnpike was open to traffic today.

Traffic began to flow over the new strip of super highway at midnight when turnpike commissioner Walter A. Jones drove the first car eastward from the junction of route 22.

The rest of the 67-mile extension to the Ohio border is scheduled for completion late this year.

Vinson Urges New Carriers; Huge Air Force

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—House Armed Services Chairman Vinson (D) Ga., today advocated a 163-group Air Force and the construction of two new super-carriers for the Navy.

Vinson announced he favors establishment of 138 combat wings and 25 troop carrier wings instead of the present 95 group goal set for the Air Force.

The two new giant carriers would be in addition to the one already authorized by Congress and Vinson said they should be completed on "a high priority basis."

The influential committee chairman recommended that two of the carriers should be assigned to the Atlantic and one to the Pacific. The 59,900-ton carrier now being constructed will be capable of launching and landing bombers large enough to carry atomic bombs.

Vinson said that the development of air power has changed the entire strategic situation and prompted his decision that a larger Air Force was needed.

Blaik, many of whose football players were among the cadets cited for discharge, defended the "excellent character" of the accused. He declared that "when the whole story is understood, no fair-minded men will condemn them."

He emphasized, however, that he did not condone the cribbing. Blaik refused to comment on reports that he will resign and said he will "state my entire position" at a news conference in New York on Thursday.

PIN PROPAGANDA LABEL ON RUSSIA'S 'PEACE OFFENSIVE'

The White House said that President Truman has received the Soviet message but that any comment would have to come from the State Department.

Meanwhile, Senate Republican Floor Leader Wherry, of Nebraska, called on Russia to take "tangible action" to break up the proposal. Wherry said in a statement that Russia should "show by her works that she keeps the faith."

Soviet Proposal
The Soviet proposal made these points:

1. A big five peace involving Russia, Red China, the U. S., Britain and France.

2. Prohibition of atomic weapons with appropriate "inspection" of each country's operations.

3. An end to the general world armament race.

4. Discontinuance of "discrimination with regard to the Soviet Union on the part of American authorities."

This was conveyed to President Truman in a letter from Nikolai Shvernik, president of the presidium of the supreme Soviet, whose stature in Moscow is somewhat less than that of Premier Josef Stalin.

Competent spokesmen immediately recalled that Soviet foreign minister Andrei Vishinsky had made a similar proposal to the United Nations in 1950. It was rejected by overwhelming vote because the Russian formula did not permit UN inspection teams to move freely in all countries engaged in atomic energy development.

basic conditions on which east and west could co-exist without war. The resolution was an outgrowth of the offer made in 1949 by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky who offered a pact of peace based on a five-power conference on disarmament and the banning of atomic weapons.

Vishinsky's proposal died practically at birth because Russia refused to make any concessions—particularly on western demands that the "iron curtain" be lifted.

Again in 1950, the assembly extended an implied invitation to the Russians. Iraq and Syria proposed, and the assembly adopted a resolution that the five big powers draft a peace program.

This offer also received a cold shoulder from the Russians. The latest Soviet offer drew from Sir Carl Brendsen of New Zealand the comment:

"Nothing has come of the five-power peace proposal adopted by the U. N. for the simple reason that it is useless and frustrating to sit across the table from the Soviet Union."

"It has been our sad experience that Russian peace offers usually are a trap or a trick. Fifty times we have sat across the table with the Russians and sought an agreement fair to both sides on peace or on other important relationships."

Will Abandon Agreements
"But we have found out that the Soviet Union will abandon agreements without batting an eye every time it suits the Kremlin to do so."

Other U. N. officials were equally suspicious of Soviet motives. They expressed the hope that President Truman will treat delicately but firmly with the note so as not to get caught in a Russian diplomatic "booby trap."

A number of delegates suspected that the bid may be Russia's "price for peace" in Korea. They surmise that Russia may stall the Kaesong talks until the entire matter can be put into the hands of a five-power conference in which Red China would participate.

liberate move on your part to terminate the armistice negotiations."

His strong message concluded with the words, "I await your acceptance of this condition."

Up to Communists
The next move was up to the Communists.

Ridgway's message asked no further specific steps by the Reds to insure compliance with Kaesong's total neutrality, to which they had previously agreed.

Nor did it request any further guarantees beyond those given by the Communists in answer to Ridgway's ultimatum of July 13th. That was when the Allied supreme commander first suspended the talks in order to get an agreement on demilitarization of the conference city.

All Ridgway's latest message asked was that the Communists tell him they understand the Allies will hold them responsible if the armistice negotiations collapse as a result of another Red violation of Kaesong's neutrality.

Ridgway made no proposal as to when the conference—now suspended for three days—might be resumed in the event the Reds accept his "condition."

outfitting their boys and girls for that trek to the various schools of the district.

Little need be said about the dependability of the merchandise being offered by New Castle's co-operating retail merchants. Goods from nationally known reliable manufacturers are being offered to the public for this one day, this special sale which is bound to attract hundreds of men and women to the business district of the city.

Merchants have been planning for some time for this event and are prepared for the influx of customers in providing for extra courteous sales personnel to take care of every demand of the most exacting shopper. Store hours remain unchanged for this sale, with doors opening promptly at 9:30 a. m. and closing at 5. The only change will be the price tags which have had prices slashed on them in order that the needs of New Castle shoppers might be met.

No one should go away from any store disappointed, but merchants urge that shopping should not be put off until too late in the day, because the early shoppers are bound to be out in great throngs and will of course reap the cream of the crop.

If it's values you're looking for—visit the store with the friendly "Dollar Day" banner where you will be assured of value plus. Remember, Thursday's the day. New Castle is the center of bargains.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Saar Valley Shows Importance

The rich Saar valley, on the highway of commerce and conquest across the face of Europe, has shown its importance again today with western Allied rejection of a German proposal for a new plebiscite in the area.

And this action reflected a growing Allied dissatisfaction with what has been termed an over-egerness by Germany to forget the war and its part in it and to reassume full equality with the west.

Chancellor and Foreign Minister Dr. Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, who has been attending Council of Europe meetings at Strasbourg, demonstrated his own awareness of criticism by expressing his personal satisfaction with the decision.

But there are other factions, less moderate in their political thinking than the experienced Adenauer, who are loudly vocal in their demands for return of the Saar.

At present, it has its own local, Democratic government with close economic ties to France. Under a 50-year treaty, the area's huge coal and iron output goes to the French republic.

Quite understandably, the German people would like to have at least a share in this industrially valuable production.

And they insist that if the population of the Saar had its own way, it would vote for inclusion in the German Federated Republic, just as it decided to join with Adolf Hitler in the Nazi heyday.

But there always has been a good deal of perhaps well-merited suspicion about that 1935 Saar plebiscite, when the people followed the pattern of pure dictatorship and voted for Nazism. They could have chosen France or League of Nations trusteeship instead.

It has been charged time and again that Hitler packed the area with Nazi Brownshirts out of uniform who terrorized or propagandized the people into voting for Hitler and Berchtesgaden.

Whether the situation is renewing itself in any way is a matter for speculation.

The existence of a strong Neo-Nazi movement in the Saar valley was demonstrated recently when the government, supported by France, officially banned all activities of this sort.

But still large blocs of Germans continue to insist that the people are fundamentally German. The rank and file of Saarlanders, however, are believed to feel that the present arrangement is the best guarantee of peace under the circumstances.

They have been ravaged by war throughout history.

Vast areas of good land have been laid waste and cultural monuments destroyed. Generally speaking, the Saar residents at least have indicated that they want no more of war and seem determined to do what they can to prevent one.

Learned Bitter Lesson

Surely they learned a bitter lesson by voting for Hitler and the Swastika 16 years ago.

There are many Allied observers at Bonn and elsewhere who seem to feel, however, that many Germans do not like to concede that they received a shattering military defeat and should be penalized for aggression.

These observers cite the attitude taken by Germany concerning contribution to western defense, and particularly the supplying of armed forces on terms desired by the Allies.

There also are some German failures to fulfill completely trade and commercial obligations. Great Britain, for example, has complained about shortages in promised steel scrap deliveries under terms of the Anglo-German trade agreement.

Another point that is mentioned is the Schuman plan for integration of French and German coal and iron resources.

Many factors have contributed to the delays in bringing this ambitious plan to fruition. Not the least is the opposition of the great German industrial families.

There also are some politicians who dislike the plan on the grounds it means an even greater blow to German sovereignty, already affected severely by the East-West split and continuation of military occupation.

The Saar Valley demand simply brought that situation to a head. By rejecting the victorious Allies have re-stated their position beyond any shadow of doubt.

Let me remind you, in case you have not noticed it, that most legislators are rather dull fellows. Senator Puffie says that America must be strong both economically and in military might, and he makes the front pages. The President says we are in great danger and editorialists are vying to call his grasp of things. The man in charge of the roller coaster at Coney Island could say the same things, which he knows, and his remarks would go unnoticed as a sparrow in the streets.

Back To Original Premise

But let us wander back to my original premise, namely that nobody knows who is going to run. Let us consider Senator Taft of Ohio. Everyone knows that he is as eager for the Republican nomination as any kid ever was for bread spread with butter and sugar when he comes home from school. I don't think it far-fetched to say that Senator Taft would risk being sawed in two by an amateur magician if he could be the GOP standard bearer in 1952.

Hundreds of reporters have asked Senator Taft if he intends to seek the nomination and I'll be a hoot owl with dark glasses if he isn't more coy than Mr. Truman. He acts as if wanting to run for president is an out-and-out shame. He'll tell you how to clean Venetian blinds, but he won't tell you if he is going to try to get the nomination in Chicago. He will warn you not to smoke in bed, not to use snuff, or tell you how to skin a deer, but his presidential aspirations you'll have to guess at.

General Eisenhower is just as bad. Ask the general how he feels about running for president and he makes the Sphinx sound like a radio announcer.

What goes for Truman, Taft and Eisenhower goes for a whole lot more politicians in this country. It seems to be time for some American to declare himself as a candidate, so without any more ado I hereby announce that I will accept the nomination, without regard to party. My platform is as simple as a recipe for boiled frankfurters, and if you're interested I'll give you a few planks in my platform.

Here's My Platform

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

Appreciative of my political sagacity—I picked Major to go Republican in 1948—no fewer than six Americans have postcarded me asking my opinion on the presidential candidates for 1952.

Frankly, I am at a loss for an answer. When asked what he intends to do, President Truman puts on an act of coyness that would do justice to a milkmaid at her first barn dance. He titters and giggles and says nothing. He blushes behind an apron of evasiveness, or else makes what White House reporters call a "wisecrack."

I have noticed that most Presidential "wisecracks" are about as funny as an outbreak of measles in a kindergarten.

Let me remind you, in case you have not noticed it, that most legislators are rather dull fellows. Senator Puffie says that America must be strong both economically and in military might, and he makes the front pages. The President says we are in great danger and editorialists are vying to call his grasp of things. The man in charge of the roller coaster at Coney Island could say the same things, which he knows, and his remarks would go unnoticed as a sparrow in the streets.

they're ordering. I'll eliminate that in my first proclamation. Eggs will be eggs, not oufs.

2. No more free automobiles for high political office holders. Most of them were lucky to have street-car fare in their early days, and they can continue riding the trolleys.

3. The complete elimination of the prints that hotels have on the walls of their rooms. Most of them look as if they were done by the assistant manager on his time off.

4. A national subsidy for the St. Louis Browns.

5. No more birthday parties for Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics calling him "the grand old man."

6. No more bank vice-presidents who act as if they owned the joint.

7. No more members of Presidential families making fortunes because the old man is President.

These are just a few planks in my platform. When I swing around the country, talking from the back of a boxcar, I'll really warm up.

Just Folks

THE FOOLISH DRIVER

He'd the notion the cars out in front must be passed. So he drove down the street at a speed much too fast. From the left line to middle; from middle to right.

He swerved in and out to be first through the light. Now his wife as she sits by his hospital bed.

Wishes he had been late for his supper instead. I know that she thinks, as he lies on his cot.

For two minutes longer the roast had stayed hot. And though five minutes late when he sat down to eat.

The pie she had made would have still been as sweet. It is much better safely at home to arrive.

Than have doctors declare: "He's more dead than alive!" His wife would have rather met him at the door.

Than be rushed by police to a hospital floor. But he cut in and out at a speed much too great.

With the foolish idea that supper can't wait. Now if doctors can keep him from joining the dead.

He'll have six weeks of meals right on time, in his bed. (Copyright, 1951, Edgar A. Guest)

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

At the entrance of the CBS studio, Jack Benny was stopped by a moocher who claimed to be an old Jack for a two-dollar loan. "I'll pay you back if it's the last thing I do," promised the poor fellow as he pocketed the two greenbacks.

Benny forgot all about the incident until about eight months later, to his surprise, he received a letter from the man, postmarked Denver. "I've struck it rich in Colorado, Jack," he boasted. "Everything broke right at the same time. Happy days are here again. I've got a great job and a society girl is going to marry me. Thanks for everything." The letter had a postscript. "I am enclosing one dollar on account of my debt. I'll send the other just as soon as I can spare it!"

The Hindus have an old saying that says, "Imagination is given to man to compensate for what he is not, a sense of humor is provided to console him for what he is."

U.S. Soldier Comes Of Age

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

RABAT, French Morocco—Rank, swank and whoop-la, a trio of military attitudes which will never be missed anywhere, seem to vanish over the rear horizon as the visitor to American outposts pushes eastward.

When the big C-74 landed yesterday at Cazes Airdrome, Casa Blanca, there was an unloading detail from the 7019 Base Complement Squadron—most of the officers and men in sport shirts and summer slacks.

The officer in charge, an Air Force major, wore a sun-brim cap and a short-sleeved civilian jumper. The ranking non-com had on part of a uniform but was shod in unofficial sneakers. To a refugee from the spit-and-polish days of World War II it was like dropping in on the country club set instead of a military detachment. The plane got unloaded with plenty of hustle but very little holler. People said "please" oftener than you ordinarily hear around military establishments.

Beginning To Tell

My surmise is that the responsibilities of American world leadership are beginning to tell, more so abroad than at home. The keepers of Pax Americana are growing up fast out here on the frontier. They are doing their man-sized job as men rather than boys, and you're proud to meet them.

One aspect of the new maturity certainly shows in their easy attitude toward themselves and the foreigners with whom they work and mingle. Back in the 1940's this just wasn't so. The sergeant's stripes and the lieutenant's bars would often do something that was out of character with the American way. Those were days when an ally's population frequently had to put up with the strut and swagger of a military novice or with the ill-mannered snobbery of Mom's boy looking down his nose at people without iceboxes and bathtubs.

Not any more, somehow. This is a wiser military generation. It has shed its crudities and acquired some savoir faire. Why not? Last night a MATS transport plane blew a tire on the runway, and the crew trooped into the transient quarters where your reporter had been sleeping. They were all youngsters just past high school age, but they were also globe-grinding airmen. Place names far from Main Street came smoothly off their tongues—the Azores, Tripoli, Athens, Ankara, Frankfurt, Rome, Paris. Today they will be flying across a sea or a desert. Tonight they will be sleeping in some far-away city that was nothing but a romantic imagining to their fathers and mothers. Such is the sophistication of youth in the 1950's. There's no longer any soap behind the ears of the young men who patrol the border lands of American responsibility.

Most Officers Are Reservists

Most of the officers and non-coms to whom these youngsters report are reservists—involuntary recalls—who are back in military service much against their wills. They are men in their 20's and 30's who did well in World War II and were doing well in civilian life when the summons came. They are anything but the raw or semi-finished products who first learned about military life a decade ago. More than a few are hand-picked for North African duty because they helped take this territory from the enemy in 1942-43. They want no part of a shooting war, and they fully understand that they are here to prevent it by foresight and advance action.

It's not remarkable, then, that the superficialities of military life are no longer conspicuous in our front line garrisons. Much of the posturing about rank, and practically all of the pomposities that attach to self-importance, have vanished. Nor is it any longer considered the part of a fightin' man to accost every female pedestrian and to attempt to empty every whiskey bottle in allied lands. This is not to say that the traditional entertainment of men who live in barracks has gone monastic. But it is a visible fact that American soldiers are no longer playboys of the western world.

Retaining Wall Of Knowledge

Behind this new maturity of our outlying forces there seems to be a solid retaining wall of knowledge. Some of it is no more than technical know-how to aerial engineering and electronics. But even this helps to make a man grow up. It is impossible to master scientific skills, as virtually every soldier today must do, without bringing some discipline to the mind and fingers. Still another sort of fairly simple knowledge involved here is the air-borne familiarity with new peoples and places. Tolerance and understanding are part of the well-traveled American soldier of today.

Finally, yet foremost in importance, is a sort of built-in knowledge which the military frontiersman acquires about the world struggle. He himself is part of the helping hand which America has extended to tottering governments and economies. Not all of the American aid has been wisely handled, but nowhere has it sprung from anything except good-will. This modern GI knows because he literally lives with the knowledge. As a carrier of good will, he is perhaps the most mature soldier which our world has yet developed.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

I wonder how many of you saw the story of the Greek immigrant persons in your newspaper. A shipload of them went over to the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, each kissing the feet of the statue, each saying a silent prayer of thanks for having reached these shores, to start a new life of freedom and of opportunity.

How many of you ever read the inscription on that statue? I have printed it before, but I shall repeat it here. "Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses, yearning to breathe free. The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

Perhaps those Greek immigrants did not know the meaning of these words. But they felt them in their souls.

How I wish, at times, that we, the people of the United States, could more fully appreciate the blessings of this country and more deeply share the feelings of the immigrants.

I myself often forget our privileges and the meaning of the word FREEDOM.

I join in the chorus of those who kick and complain about taxes and high prices and draft in government—forgetting that the very act of kicking and complaining is a privilege no other country grants its citizens.

Our newspaper, in which I saw the story about the Greek immigrants, carried a picture of the event.

In an inset there was an old woman, with shawl and gnarled hands, chewing away on a frankfurter sandwich.

My wife looked at the picture, and at the caption underneath. "Good God!" she exclaimed, "that woman is younger than I am!"

Not to offend my wife, I shall not give the woman's age. Suffice it to say that she was not old at all—but what a difference between my wife and her!

I was thinking of the Greek immigrants kissing the Statue of Liberty as I read an advertisement of the Republic Steel company which appeared in Editor and Publisher, the trade paper of journalism.

"But nobody beat me up!" the ad went on to say. "Now, you might say, what's so unusual about me NOT getting beat up for speaking out against the local government?"

"That's just my point. It ISN'T unusual! Not in this country. Here we ALL have free speech. It's part of our Constitution, even if we hardly think about it twice."

"But just think of folks in other countries who'd give their right eye to be American citizens and talk out at town meetings. And NOT get slugged."

"Ever stop to think that while all these people are trying to get INTO America, nobody here is trying to get OUT? That's because we like it here. No, not just because we've got autos and phones and bathtubs and all that."

"The real reason is, we've got FREEDOM! Seven days a week! We're free to follow our own religion, free to choose our own jobs in any industry we like. We can vote as we please, or NOT vote if we prefer. Though I personally think anyone who doesn't is a 14-carat dope."

What are YOU doing with your FREEDOM?

STANDARDIZING ARMS PROBLEM

The United States, which is supplying relief or military aid to just about every nation that is not allied with Russia, has been trying to simplify its task by seeking agreements for standardization of weapons used by the various armies allied for mutual defense. Supplying the governments with equipment for their soldiers is naturally made easier if all are outfitted with and trained in the use, for instance, of guns made to the same specifications and shooting the same ammunition.

For several years moves have been pressed for such standardization among Latin-American states, with Canada and Britain, and now in the North Atlantic treaty organization.

Fact that United States and Canada have found it difficult to persuade Britain to join them in adopting a .30 caliber Garand rifle as standard is not easily understandable in view of the circumstance that these three nations, as far back as December 19, 1949, announced agreement on a program to standardize both arms and military training. This was the result of two years of conferring.

Confirming the agreement at the time, the London ministry of defense sagely stated:

These arrangements will insure that it time of necessity there will be no material or technical obstacle to full cooperation among the armed forces concerned, and the greatest possible economy of use of combined resources and effort will be obtained."

Yet now, surprisingly, the British, having lately decided to discard their Enfield .303, seem bent on maintaining individuality with a lighter weapon of .28 caliber rather than the .30 on which Canada and the United States agreed.

Now defense officials of Canada, Britain and France are in Washington for a new effort to coordinate production of small arms and ammunition. But sometimes it seems as if it is almost as difficult to do business with a socialist government as with a Communist regime.

DRAFT DEFERMENT TEST

Casual reaction to the failure by 38 per cent of the 165,000 students who took the first draft-deferment test might be that this is a serious reflection on institutions of higher learning. But that would be to ignore the purpose of the test.

Selective service was not interested in how many had the intellectual equipment to make them for the time being more valuable as students than in the armed services. That implied that those capable of passing the tests might best serve the nation as scientists, researchers, administrators or in special capacities.

Remembered lessons and mathematical formulae played relatively little part in the government's test. Ability to reason, analyze, deduce the meaning from literary texts, make the right decision from among several submitted answers was tested.

Precision in vocabulary, too, played a part. The object was to test not how well the student was pursuing his regular college courses, but to elicit some dependable criterion as to his general knowledge and aptitude.

Draft and educational authorities are reported satisfied with the results, finding them about as they had anticipated. In the event there have to be fewer deferments of those already in college life, tests will be made more rigorous or the standards higher.

What about the colleges? Are they making thinkers? One can scarcely doubt that when it is known that 53 per cent of freshmen passed with 70 per cent or higher, as did 64 per cent of sophomores, 72 per cent of juniors and 79 per cent of seniors. This rising scale seems definitely significant of developed reasoning powers and wider horizons.

AGREEMENT ON SPANISH BASES

The "inside story" on the agreement for Spanish bases is that American military authorities finally prevailed upon President Truman to overrule the State Department. The agreement which the late Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, negotiated with the Spanish government represented a defeat for the State Department.

State officials claimed that such a pact (1) might alienate our allies who regard Generalissimo Francisco Franco as a Fascist and (2) would provide Russia with a new source of anti-American propaganda. However, United States military leaders apparently convinced the president that defense considerations superseded political ones.

That is the reason for the sudden change in the views expressed by Mr. Truman, who only a short time ago was reiterating his opposition to the Franco regime.

DRAFT QUOTAS TO STAY HIGH

Monthly draft quotas will remain high and there is a chance that they will be increased—even if the war is ended in Korea. The administration figures that it must continue to build up America's armed forces against the threat of Soviet aggression. United States leaders are determined not to be lulled into a false sense of security by peace in Korea.

It is felt that peace in Korea might cause a slackening in volunteer enlistments and force the armed services to increase their demand for draftees.

This already has been indicated in the draft call for September. For the first time, the armed forces ordered a draft of men—7,000—for the Marine Corps, traditionally a volunteer branch of the service.

The Parent Problem

RULES FOR SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE

Dr. Clifford R. Adams, professor of psychology and director of marriage counseling service, Pennsylvania State college, has written a new book, "Preparing for Marriage: a Guide to Marital and Sexual Adjustments."

Among many other facts, theories and items in this book, Dr. Adams gives what he calls "Ten Commandments," appearing in his chapter "After Thoughts."

1. Right preparation for marriage includes growing up in an atmosphere of love and understanding, also competence in household skills for girls and in maintenance and household repairs for boys.

2. Wise choice of a mate seeks similarity in tastes, motives and needs, moral codes and religion and readiness to adjust difference in such directions.

3. Put loyalty and affection to spouse above loyalty and affection to parents.

4. Both man and wife need to strive to make a go of marriage. "Neither can do it alone but it is largely through the wife's efforts that marriage will become happy. Though husbands can cause marriage to fail, it's almost always the wives who make them succeed."

Necessary Adjustments

Aren't these last two statements a bit sweeping? While other investigations have pointed out that the wife more often than the husband makes the necessary adjustments for harmony, neither published facts nor common sense warrants the conclusion that happy marriage does not require as much selfishness and effort toward success by the husband as the wife. At various places through the book, Dr. Adams seems to expect proportionately far too little of husbands. In their wider relationships as persons, he frequently pictures the wife in a minor role.

5. Be patient, keeping your eyes on the big goals—"your own home, a serene family, security for old age—and today's petty annoyances will seem unimportant."

6. Put yourself in the other's place, following the Golden Rule.

7. Spiritual unity having been attained by observing the foregoing, "this unity can and should be expressed in physical love."

Goal of Marriage

8. Have children. "To have children is not only a goal of marriage, but an obligation to society. To deny this obligation is to evade your responsibility and to deprive yourself and your mate of one of the greatest satisfactions of marriage."

9. Plan your family early. Decide then when you want to have the first baby and how many and budget the family income accordingly. Dr. Adams warns newlyweds against waiting till they think they can afford a family.

10. When troubles arise which you can't by your own efforts resolve, seek impersonal counsel—of your clergyman or a marriage counselor, not of relatives and friends.

With most of the foregoing I could heartily agree. But the lack of balance with the rest of the book by the chapter on "Achieving Sexual Satisfaction." I would question. It's based on research but the research almost ignores many of the countless psychological factors involved.

Total Happiness

Dr. Adams does say that "it is abundantly clear that the degree of satisfaction found in sex relationships by both partners is clearly related to the total happiness of the marriage." Yet the average reader of this chapter hardly would arrive at this conclusion.

This book is a distinct contribution to the literature on marriage. I would heartily recommend it to wives and husbands, especially newlyweds.

Hint Special State Session

Gov. Fine Pictured As Planning Call On Revenue Issues

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Gov. John S. Fine was pictured today by senate Democrats as hinting at a special session within two weeks of adjournment of the 1951 session should lawmakers refuse him at least $119 million dollars in additional revenue.

Minority leader John H. Dent, of Westmoreland, said the hint of a special session was made by Logan, budget secretary Edward B. Logan, and state attorney general Robert E. Woodside during a tax tete-a-tete especially arranged with the Democrats by the governor.

Fine held the informal affair at the swank Hershey hotel flanked by Woodside and senate finance committee chairman T. Newell Wood, of Luzerne.

Democrats refused to support the one-half of one per cent income tax proposed by Fine to yield the $119 million dollars but in turn informally proposed an other substitute program which would produce about 129 million dollars in the 1951-53 biennium.

The Democratic senate caucus instructed its five members of the 17-member senate finance committee to vote against reporting the income tax bill to the floor.

'Spending Million Dollars Per Hour For Alcoholic Beverages'

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union declared today that Americans are spending one million dollars an hour on alcoholic beverages.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin of Evanston, Ill., arrived in Boston to attend an executive committee meeting preceding the opening of the 77th annual convention of the WCTU tomorrow night.

She said reports from the U. S. Department of Commerce indicated consumption of alcoholic beverages in the United States has risen to 2,903,000,000 gallons annually.

Mrs. Colvin said: "Drinkers spent more for alcoholic beverages last year while consuming more whiskey and wine, and increasingly turned their parlors and kitchens into 'beer bars' due to the influence of radio and television brewer sponsored programs which solicited them to drink."

She said consumers spent a total of $8,760,000,000 for liquor, wine and beer last year.

Dynamite Laden Tractor-Trailer Burns And Explodes

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 7.—(INS)—A tractor-trailer loaded with six tons of dynamite caught fire and exploded near Cove Gap today in a blast felt 10 miles away at Chambersburg.

Quick action by the driver, Raymond Bess, 27, of Eldred, Pa., saved the lives of three members of a family whose six-room house was demolished.

Police said another house which was unoccupied also was destroyed, windows and doors in 20 others were broken and barns and sheds were damaged in a radius of 300 yards.

Windows Broken Miles Away

Several windows were reported shattered in Mercersburg, five miles distant, and a number of Chambersburg residents told police they noticed the jar.

The explosion ripped a hole 30 feet deep and 100 feet wide. The truck blew up about 15 minutes after it took flame.

Four-year-old Estner Gordon was cut by flying glass from the window of her bedroom a few hundred yards from the blast, police said.

A woman identified as Lulu Rockwell, of Mercersburg, R. D. 3, was knocked down by the concussion as she stood on the porch of her home one-quarter mile away. She suffered arm injuries.

The driver told police the truck's brakes failed while descending Tuscarora Mountain. He jumped before the vehicle toppled over a 60 foot embankment and began to burn.

He ran to a house 100 yards away and told the three occupants to hurry along the road and stop traffic. He then ran in the other direction to halt cars.

Minutes after the house was emptied it was leveled by the explosion.

Two automobiles were damaged last night when they struck a utility excavation in Highland, near Hillcrest avenue. The cars were operated by James R. Day, Rochester, Pa., and A. F. Morris, R. D. 8.

According to street department employees, the excavation was made by the city and employees put red lights last night on the opening.

A car, driver of which is unknown, struck and knocked off the warning lights. He failed to report it, hence the other two cars struck the unprotected opening.

When the city streets department was notified of the accidents the warning lights were replaced.

Preparing For Circus

Playground Circus Thursday Night

No star performer of the big tent ever worked as hard as the children that are presenting the playground circus on Thursday evening are working.

The hustle and bustle and excitement of the circus apparently has caught the imagination of everyone concerned. Elaborate preparations for the "big show" are laboriously being performed, from the star dancers with the glittering toes to the pathetic little clowns with all their buffoonery.

Mike Isabella will direct the civic band in a concert of band music guaranteed to start the toes tapping and to bring the smell of circus sawdust to the air.

The gala circus parade will begin promptly at 7:15 with all the color and magic of all circus parades. Huge floats and caged animals, fearless animal trainers and wild Indian dancers will be but a few of the many features of the circus.

Everyone is welcome to the free circus at Taggart stadium Thursday, Aug. 9, beginning at seven p. m.

Cpl. P. J. Richards Assigned Overseas

Cpl. Peter J. Richards, son of Mrs. Stan Jendryk, of this city, and Peter J. Richards of Erie, is completing a three-week furlough here.

Cpl. Richards has been assigned for service for a three-year period at Chateaufort, France, attached with the 7300rd Materiale Control Group.

Thursday evening, August 9, he will leave at 8 p. m. for Camp Kilmer, Brunswick, N.J., the point of embarkation for overseas duty.

The young soldier enlisted for service in the U. S. Army Air Force on December 7, 1950. At that time he was employed in the time office of the United Engineering Company.

He received his basic training at the Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Tex., where he was also a member of the Honor Flight 6388 and Squadron 3740. Later he reported for duty at the Supply Technical school at Lowery Air Force Base, Denver, Colo., and was graduated from this school in April 12, 1951, with high honors and an excellent rating.

Cpl. Richards was assigned later to the Wright-Patterson Air Field, Dayton, O. He is a senior supply record specialist.

The serviceman makes his home here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ricciardi, of Agnew street.

Stepson Of American Newsmen Appears Princess' Favorite

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The stepson of an American newsmen, led the popular British "sweepstakes" for the hand of Princess Margaret today. A second contender is demolishing his home for lack of funds and a third is "fading away."

New stimulus was given to Britain's favorite guessing game when newspapers and court circles boosted the "candidacy" of a 24-year-old Billy Wallace, stepson of Herbert Agar, former editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Billy is a good polo-player, story teller and a capable dancer. His stock rose with the announcement that he will acquire the pet princess when she goes to Balmoral Castle to be with her parents, the king and queen, when they observe the coming of age of the princess.

A second would-be suitor, farmer Captain Tom Egerton, is dismantling his 80-room home near Hastings because he cannot afford the upkeep. He said:

"We have offered it to everyone we can think of, but nobody seems to be interested in it. The upkeep costs are now very heavy, and there is really no point in having it stand empty."

The blue-blooded Earl of Dalkeith, once a frequent companion of the princess, seemingly is out of the running entirely. The princess reportedly tired of his talk of farming and cattle-raising.

Almost Made $45,000 Profit On $410 Setup

By SAM FOGG
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A house investigating subcommittee blamed army inspectors for the fact that a Memphis, Tenn., operator of a run-down plant almost ballooned a $410 set-up into a government contract which would have profited him $45,000.

The house group, headed by Rep. Hebert (D. La.), sharply criticized the contract let for 118,000 folding chairs to the Consolidated Industries, Inc., of which Jacob W. P. Fleming is chief stockholder.

According to the armed services subcommittee report, government inspectors fell victim to what it termed "window dressing" put forth by Fleming who posed as a "small business" man despite the fact he had virtually no plant facilities.

Obtained Contract

Hebert's committee reported that Fleming successfully obtained a government contract for the chairs in December, 1950, with a bid that was $15,000 below the lowest bid submitted.

An initial inspection showed, however, that Fleming's firm had been inactive for 18 months and that the plant consisted of "old broken-down refrigerators, desks, benches and a lot of torn-up scrap lumber."

The report says that Fleming thereby went to Washington, visited a group of congressional aides and obtained the contracts.

"Subsequent inspectors were subjected to what the committee termed 'misleading statements' and 'window dressing'."

The report criticizes the inspectors for "glaring oversights and naivete" and notes that Fleming's firm eventually had to turn over the entire contract to another firm.

The committee added:

"The chairs are not being produced, months in default of the due date. On July 25, 1951, only 7,000 chairs had been delivered and 12,000 were awaiting inspection. There are nearly 100,000 yet to be delivered."

"The army has been standing a long time."

The report declared that a "competent" inspection service would have discredited the deal and then noted that after the foul-up with the army, the same firm obtained a contract from the Marine Corps for an additional 12,000 chairs.

Declares Lottery Racket Flourishes In Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—A Pennsylvania police official told the Senate crime committee today that a 30-million-dollar-a-year lottery racket flourishes in his state and that its kingpin is Louis Cohen, a missing witness.

Capt. Harry E. McElroy, head of the criminal identification division of the Pennsylvania state police, gave his estimate after one witness from Scranton refused to answer questions and an admitted numbers operator from Wilkes-Barre denied knowing Cohen.

Joseph Sizemore, the Scranton witness, flatly refused to say whether he had any knowledge of lotteries, prostitution, horse races or other criminal operations in the state. He cited fear of self-incrimination as the basis of his refusal.

The second witness, Jimmy Mack, of Wilkes-Barre, admitted that he operates a $50 to $60-a-day numbers business in his city but said the local police had "never bothered" him.

Witness 'Believed' Michael Greenberg Was Communist

By CHARLES B. SEIB
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A former German communist told Senate investigators today that he "believed" Michael Greenberg, who once worked in the White House and State Department, was an "organized communist."

The testimony was given to the anti-subversives committee by Dr. Karl August Wittfogel, a University of Washington professor and expert on Chinese history, at a hearing on alleged communist infiltration into the institute of Pacific relations.

During Wittfogel's testimony, committee counsel Robert Morris said that Greenberg in 1941 was an aide to the late presidential assistant Lauchlin Currie, whose name has come up repeatedly in the hearings.

Document In Evidence

The committee also put in the record a civil service document showing that in 1947 Greenberg was barred from civil service examination "because of questionable loyalty" after serving in the foreign economic administration and the State Department. He left the State Department in June, 1946, in a "reduction in force."

The committee also produced a letter on White House stationery written by Greenberg to the IPR regarding some publications. Currie wanted sent to New Delhi, India. It was dated August 31, 1943.

Wittfogel testified that he met Greenberg in Cambridge, England, in 1934 "among English communist friends," he said.

"I believed he was an organized communist, although I did not see his card . . . I was later surprised to learn that he succeeded Owen Lattimore as editor of Pacific affairs (the IPR publication)."

Wittfogel said that when Greenberg was being considered for a White House job in 1941 "I talked to the man in charge of security and told him about Mr. Greenberg." The next thing I knew he had landed in a minor job at the White House.

The witness said that he joined the German Communist party in 1920, but dropped his membership in 1932 or 1933 because he disagreed with party's attitude toward Hitler. He said he completed his break with the Reds in 1939.

River Raft To Resume Trip

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 7.—(INS)—The raft "Lethargia" and its crew of two unmarried girls and two bachelors will shove off from Moundsville tomorrow to resume their river journey to New Orleans.

Skipper Mary Ellen McCrady, 24-year-old University of Michigan graduate, said today that work on the craft's 6-by-8-foot shelter was finished early today and the rest of the day will be spent loading supplies and personal belongings aboard.

It's almost two weeks since the "Lethargia", hitching a ride with a river towboat, turned turtle July 26 and dunked Skipper McCrady, Geraldine Garcia, 23, of Boston, Don Brown, 24, of Detroit, and Milton Borden, 30, of New Bedford, Mass., in the Ohio river. All hands survived except "Sam," the canine mascot.

The first week after the mishap was spent in rejuvenating sodden clothing, bedding and other personal belongings with the aid of helpful neighbors and their washing machines.

The raft was righted and the shelter rebuilt with lumber given the travelers by merchants in Moundsville and vicinity.

Now, with a new pennant reading "New Kensington, Pa. to New Orleans via Moundsville, W. Va." and a new mascot, a mongrel dog named "Delilah", the sociological experimenters are all set to go again.

Miss McCrady said the whole crew thought they received fine treatment during their Moundsville stay.

Report Drop In Beef Moving Through State Slaughterhouses

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—

A 17 per cent drop in beef moving through Pennsylvania slaughterhouses during June compared with the comparable month in 1950 was reported today by the state department of agriculture.

Production of 53,769,000 pounds of all meats for the month was an 11 per cent decline from the May level, according to the department.

June was the first full month that government price ceilings were effective.

The department sketched the meat picture as follows:
"In comparison to the 17 per cent drop in beef slaughter in Pennsylvania, pork production increased one per cent in June over June, 1950. Veal was down 29 per cent and lamb and mutton declined 33 per cent."

"For the first six months of 1951 Pennsylvania slaughterings totalled nearly 367 million pounds, a drop of two per cent from the same period last year. Only pork showed an increase, advancing from 161,448,000 pounds to 163,757,000 pounds.

"Slaughter of meat animals in the state during June numbered 48,000 beef cattle, 41,000 calves, 201,000 hogs and 14,300 sheep and lams. During June 1950, totals of 57,000 beef cattle, 60,000 calves, 194,000 hogs and 21,000 sheep and lambs were slaughtered."

Another Royal Visit

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS)—These are perilous times, with communism and thunder on the left and nuclear fission and jitters on the right.

If an empire has a salesman in its midst, this is the time to put him on the road. Princess Elizabeth is now packing her sample case and will be in Washington, D. C., with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, late in October.

Doubtless, the British can take it. But can we? Another royal visit, that is.

The last royal visit, that of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in June, 1939, was made in equally touchy times. At that date the international situation was deteriorating rapidly, but not half as rapidly as the social situation in the nation's capital.

Near Civil Strife
Their majesties' visit induced civil strife if not actual bloodshed among the Washington populace. Hell hath no fury like a bureaucrat scorned, and the Anglo-American entente almost went down the drain when the British embassy failed to invite to its garden party for the king and queen every politico who felt himself socially qualified because he had carried the third ward back home.

After all, how could any self-respecting politician go home and admit to his constituents that the British embassy did not consider him sufficiently important to shake hands with their majesties?

Even though the then British ambassador and his American wife, Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay, were giving a large garden party, the embassy is somewhat smaller than Madison Square Garden and the guest list could not be quite as general as that at a national convention.

With the king and queen here to make friends and influence politicians in a world crisis, Sir Harold and Lady Lindsay so far forgot themselves as to invite only half the members of the United States Senate.

Bellows Of Triumph
The bellows of triumph let out by those who received magnificently engraved invitations to the garden party were equalled only by the anquished screams of those who had failed to make the grade. Thanks to practice and experience, none screamed more loudly than the snubbed senators.

This is a democracy and no senator or his lady has to take such treatment lying down. The wives of the invite-less senators complained so loudly that Cactus Jack Garner, then Vice President of the United States, decided something had better be done to save the grand alliance.

Mr. Garner asked Sir Ronald to luncheon and gently explained to him that the Senate jealously guards its power to ratify treaties—all treaties. And, as the Vice President pointed out, a man could never tell when the British might want a treaty ratified.

Sir Ronald saw the light. All senators were invited to the garden party, which had threatened to eclipse the Boston tea party as a portent of disaster for the empire.

Fought For Invitations
Deserving politicians in both parties and in all ranks fought for invitations to the party as if for re-election. The embassy was besieged. Everybody and his cousin was determined to shake hands with their majesties, even if it took blackmail to snare an invitation.

There is every reason to believe that another great battle of the Potomac is in the making, now that the princess and her handsome husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, are coming to the capital to visit Pres. and Mrs. Truman.

The three-day visit will be the supreme social event of the year. It is to be presumed that her parents are already briefing princess Elizabeth. But has anyone thought to tell Sir Oliver Franks, the present British ambassador and scholarly occupant of the embassy, that it is none to soap to start building the barricades.

Shoots Wife To Death, Commits Suicide

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., Aug. 7.—(INS)—A navy chief petty officer who saved his wife from suicide a year ago shot her to death yesterday in their home and then committed suicide.

Police Chief Walter Atkinson said the bodies of Louis Dombrova, 29, an aviation machinist at the Pomona, N. J. naval air station, and his wife Katherine, 34, were found in their basement apartment by the landlord.

Atkinson said that Mrs. Dombrova had been shot in the left temple, while Dombrova had bullet wounds in the left temple and mouth.

The landlord, Nelson McCollum, told police that he heard muffled sounds earlier yesterday, but had investigated only after Dombrova failed to leave for the naval base at his usual hour.

The police chief said that a year ago, when the couple were living in another apartment in Pleasantville, the petty officer had arrived home in time to turn off illuminating gas with which his wife had tried to kill herself.

Garden Notes

Lice which gather on the back of nasturtium leaves and cause them to turn yellow can be dealt with by using a nicotine spray.

To have forget-me-nots in bloom early next year the seed should be sown this month.

Fruits which drop prematurely are often afflicted with insect or fungus ailments. Gather them up and destroy them rather than leave them on the ground where they may serve as a source of reinfection next year.

Dahlias, gladioli, chrysanthemums, tomatoes, and those plants which are putting forth every effort to produce flowers and fruit should be fed now for the best results.

The strawberry bed should be put in shape now by transplanting runners to fill any vacant spots and by thinning out other sections which are over-crowded, leaving only strong individual plants.

An important factor in the fall clean-up in the home garden is the elimination of as many weeds as possible to keep them from going to seed and thus over-populating the garden with new weeds next year.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 7.—(INS)—George W. Maxey, late Pennsylvania supreme court justice, left an estate of $87,162, including personal property valued at $51,027 and real estate worth $36,135.

An inventory of the estate was filed yesterday in Lackawanna county court house. Maxey died March 20, 1950.

The first oil well in the U. S. was built in Titusville, Pa., in 1859.

Superintendent Of Pittsburgh Police Reinstated On Job

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Harvey J. Scott, the suspended superintendent of Pittsburgh police, was back in harness today after being reinstated by safety director George E. A. Fairley.

However, it was generally conceded that Scott's reinstatement was ordered by Mayor David L. Lawrence who had just returned to Pittsburgh Friday from a lengthy European vacation.

Fairley, who was also given the honor of announcing the reinstatement, said the condition was probationary, adding that Scott's "long years of service to the city and his experience and ability entitle him to another chance."

Scott had been off duty since

June 22 when he appeared before a special investigating grand jury in what was officially described as "an intoxicated condition."

The police superintendent later officially apologized to Judge Sara M. Soffel and members of the grand jury, but he was suspended from duty until his reinstatement yesterday.

He recently completed his training at Sampson.

RANGE COLORS

NEW YORK—To achieve more colorful kitchen effects, modern gas ranges now are produced in a variety of colors for tops, handles and gas-cocks. Enameling is better, too. It's thinner, harder, more resistant to stains and less subject to chipping. Even white enamel is a more positive white, providing better harmony with other kitchen fixtures.

PAN GRAVY

To make pan gravy when cooking a slice of ham, just add a little water to the pan drippings and season with freshly-ground black pepper.

A Little Patience.. and It's Yours !

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

In all the world of manufactured products, there is nothing more difficult to wait for—once you have decided to own it—than a Cadillac car.

If it is to be your first Cadillac, it is doubtless the fulfillment of a long-cherished dream—and it is hard to wait for one's heart's desire, once it is so close at hand.

And if it is to be a replacement for your old love—well, experience has taught you how consistently and completely the good things come from Cadillac—and your curiosity is a force to reckon with!

To make it worse, temptation is all about you. Down the street and around the corner are cars to be had almost as soon as your signature is on an order blank.

But be patient and be firm—for there is a reason why other cars may be had so readily—while there is some delay in delivery of a Cadillac.

It is because so many wonderful people, like yourself, want only Cadillac—and will accept no compromise.

If we already have your order—turn a deaf ear to those who would have you compromise your preference for the sake of earlier delivery.

And if you want a Cadillac, but have not yet placed your order, come in and do so. We will talk with you frankly about delivery, so you may know about what to anticipate.

Remember—there is only one car which is recognized wherever highways lead as the Standard of the World—and that car is Cadillac.

MENTAL HYGIENE

People seem to be getting along pretty well with sanitations nowadays. The span of life is getting longer and people are healthier than they were a thousand years ago.

This condition demands that we pay more attention to mental hygiene.

Butch and Grandad will have to get along with Sissy and the teacher and the garbage man and traffic cop and the preacher and the tax collector and some others.

If their bodies are healthy, their minds should be in good condition too.

Butch's chances of living 70 years are much better than Grandad's were. We will have to figure on some way to keep him out of the daffy house.

Seeks To Outlaw Communist Party In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Legislation to outlaw the Communist party from Pennsylvania is before the general assembly today.

Identical bills introduced in the house and senate also would forfeit all Communist party-owned property to the Commonwealth and make membership or participation in Red activities liable to 20 years in jail or $10,000 fines.

The legislation was drafted by state supreme court designate Michael A. Musmanno who won a nomination tantamount to election to the appellate bench in the July 24 primary.

Musmanno, who has lost five decisions before the high court on technical issues involving Communists, said "it would be a big mistake for the legislature to adjourn without passing legislation which will permit our state authorities to arrest and prosecute every Communist in Pennsylvania."

New Attack Directed At Secretary Of State

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The senate reportedly is inclined today to pigeonhole the demand made by Sen. Benton (D) Conn., for the expulsion of Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis.

Benton touched off the new feud by proposing a senate rules committee investigation of McCarthy's role in the Maryland senatorial election campaign.

He said the probe should determine whether action for the expulsion of McCarthy from the senate should be initiated.

Benton, who made his proposal in a formal resolution, said that in the meantime McCarthy should resign from the senate because of his activities in the Maryland campaign.

Finish Count
Late TodayExpect To Have
Totals Completed

Sometime late today the official recount board expects to have its work completed and the totals of the vote on July 24 all finished.

The probabilities are that the work would have been completed at least a day earlier if there had not been such a load of write-in votes for election board posts, and other offices.

JAIL INSPECTED

The county commissioners have received a copy of the jail inspection made recently by a representative of the Bureau of Penal Affairs of the Department of Welfare.

In general the jail was found to be in good shape but a few suggestions were offered. One is that an opening at the bottom of the east door screen be covered to prevent contraband from being slipped into the jail.

The sheriff and the prison physician are instructed to make mental and physical examinations of all sentenced inmates within 48 hours of their admission to the jail.

ATTORNEY RAE ACTING

Lawrence County Farm And Home News

By Extension Representatives
Lewis C. Dayton, Agriculture
John H. Holbert, Agriculture
Patricia A. Kelley, Home Economics

NEW CORRESPONDENCE ENROLLMENT IS LIMITED

Because demand for correspondence courses offered by Pennsylvania State college in agriculture and home economics recently has exceeded facilities for this work, new enrollments are being accepted only from Pennsylvania starting from July 1.

State extension director J. M. Fry says the college "regrets the necessity of this curtailment of its services to other states," but that all persons now enrolled are being continued in the program, and new enrollments from Pennsylvania will continue to be received without restriction or interruption.

Limiting new enrollments to Pennsylvania will mean even better service for the people of this state. A forerunner of the present Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Service, of which it is a part, this practice of taking the college to the people was started by the Pennsylvania State college in 1892. It has been continued ever since and without charge.

The all-time enrollment now totals 96,823. Around 400 new students have been enrolling each month, half of them from out of the state. Lessons average 7,000 per month. Present active enrollment represents 66 of the 67 counties, all 48 states and 13 foreign countries.

Fifty-four courses are offered, 46 in agriculture and eight in home economics. They are handled from the college with Dr. J. Earl McCord, 201 Agricultural Education building in charge. They supplement the regular programs of extension instruction provided in all Pennsylvania counties by the extension service.

The Agricultural Extension office can supply enrollment cards and descriptions of the various courses.

GROWERS CONCERNED BY TOMATO BLIGHT

Many growers are wondering whether their tomatoes have late blight. This descriptive disease has been found on tomato fields in several areas in southeastern Pennsylvania, but it is not known to be present in northern or western Pennsylvania. Potato blight is being found in all areas.

Growers should be on the lookout for late blight. It causes blackish spots on leaves. Blighted leaves may be twisted and under cool, moist conditions a light mildew growth appears on the under side of diseased leaves. Dark brown target-like spots on leaves are caused by alternaria leaf spot.

Sprays or dusts applied to all parts is needed for protection when blight is present. A 7 per cent fixed copper dust has been effective in home gardens.

UNDERSTAND MORE ABOUT CHILD GROWTH

Because of the many states, stages and complexity of child nature and child growth, a complete understanding is almost endless. However, research and observation have added to our knowledge about children.

This increased knowledge has given us a deeper understanding of child growth and a more sympathetic attitude toward their problems. Much effort has been put forth in finding out how children feel, what their emotional needs are, as well as to record and analyze what they do and say.

Nothing can substitute for actual contact with children themselves, according to specialists in child development. Movies and the written word can help one know what to look for and how to interpret what children see.

Whatever we wish to accomplish with children depends on our knowledge in a specific subject field and on our understanding of children themselves. We may know what is good nutrition but we cannot get very far with Johnny and his eating habits until we understand Johnny. Too few adults really appreciate the importance of trying sympathetically, persistently and patiently to understand children.

LIMB FALLS, DOG SAVES MISTRESS

LADDIE GETS A PAT on the head from his mistress, Mrs. Muriel Lurie of Albany, N. Y., after his frantic barks save her from possible injury by a falling tree limb (right) over a park bench. "I didn't hear the limb cracking," said Mrs. Lurie. (International Soundphoto)

DP TWINS ON WAY TO CALIFORNIA

Library Has Books To Aid Children

In a recent article published in The News, (August 3, 1951) Dr. Harry Myers in his column, "The Parent Problem," tells how summer reading benefits the child.

He suggests the summer as an ideal time for the family to go to the public library as a group, and the experience thus gained will be invaluable later.

Aside from the pleasure in reading itself, says Dr. Myers, should you have a child over six or seven who is a poor reader, you hardly could do better in helping him improve his reading than by encouraging him to read to a younger child, especially during the summer.

Your Free Public Library, and its three conveniently located branches, urge you to take advantage of the opportunities offered parents and their children for good reading and pleasant hours shared.

Reading for young children is rarely something they enjoy in isolation; rather it is a pleasure to be shared as a family.

Among the titles often suggested for first reading are the books of Lois Lenski, Little Train, Little Farm and Little Family.

Virginia Burton's, Mike Mulligan and his Steam Shovel is just right for young construction engineers. To stimulate the imagination and for pure fun the books of Dr. Seuss are a happy choice. These books and many others suitable for the entire family are available at the Free Public Library.

Mrs. Yoho, of Homewood, is spending a few days at the home of John Aymes, who has been quite ill but is improved at this writing.

McMorrin and grand- Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Young and Mrs. Lloyd Armstrong and daughter, Ellen May, of Lisbon, O., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Morren.

A number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Anna Marshall recently in honor of her 70th birthday. A delicious lunch was served by an appointed committee and the honor guest received a large number of gifts and cards.

daughter, Patricia Claus, of Pittsburgh, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Young Saturday.

Bobby McMorrin has returned to his home in Beaver Falls, R.D. 1, after spending several days with his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Young, here.

William C. Bollinger Given Appointment

Announcement is made that William C. Bollinger, of 104 W. Madison avenue, has been appointed to the New Castle branch of the Colonial Life Insurance Company. He is a lifelong resident of New Castle.

It is believed that the polonaise dance was originated in 1573, to honor the election of Henry, Duke of Anjou, to the throne of Poland.

BLUE AND WHITE

NEW YORK—Is there blue among the white in your linen closet? Specialists say that there's little or no truth in the old idea that blue tissue paper keeps stored linens and other white articles from turning yellow. Yellowing is usually caused by sizing in the fabric, stains, and by changes due to aging. So if you must store white fabrics over a long period, make sure the fabrics are clean, free from starch, and protected from dust and dirt. Store in a dry, cool place.

ERIE MAN AIDS SUFFERERS FROM FOOT TROUBLES

News Briefs From City Hall

Council will meet August 27 to hear any possible objections to a correction of the zoning map as it concerns Taylor street. It was agreed the section near the old streets department structure should be a main commercial district. However, it is shown as a light industrial district on the zoning map, hence the meeting to correct the error.

Decision of council to clothe the chief of police with authority to make traffic regulations here occurred yesterday. Out of the ordinance, when it is passed, may come a decision to route heavy truck traffic from East Washington street, which now hinders traffic of lighter vehicles.

Alice Reese has returned to city hall duties, as stenographer and assistant telephone operator. May Crawford, telephone switchboard operator, is now on her vacation and her duties are being performed by Laura Conway.

Mercantile tax refunds recommended by City Treasurer B. N. Hanlon because they were paid twice were granted by council to Marquis & Hinrich, $100, and Eintracht Singing society, $2. On recommendation of Earned Income Tax Receiver Lewis A. McClung, several refunds of payroll taxes were made to out-of-town persons from whom withholding tax was collected by employers.

State auditor-general has sent to the city $276.60, representing the city's share from a tax on foreign fire insurance paid here. The money will be divided between the Volunteer Firemen and the Paid Firemen's funds.

One thousand gallons gasoline tank will be installed by Andrew Phares at the new city building at Shenango and Bridge street.

Missing Girl's Mother Abandons Hope Of Daughter's Rescue

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The mother of a student nurse missing three weeks in the Arizona desert virtually abandoned hope today that her daughter would be found alive.

Mrs. John Walker arrived in Los Angeles last night from Malverne, N. Y., to offer assistance in the search for June Walker, 26, student nurse missing with Klaus Martens, 28, Pasadena auto salesman, since they took off on a plane flight from East Los Angeles for Blythe, Calif., July 15.

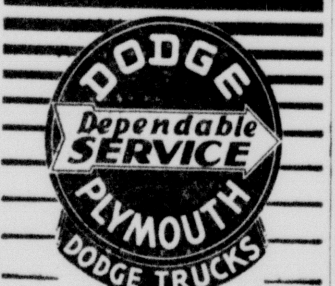

The plane was forced down 50 miles southeast of Yuma, Ariz. Search for the lost pair was reported to have dwindled yesterday to four five-man rescue teams from March Air Force base, Calif. They were quartering the desert surrounding the spot where the plane was found abandoned last Tuesday. A note was left, indicating the couple planned to try to hike to safety.

Since then there has been no trace of the pair except footprints, which faded out after a distance of a few miles.

Consideration Of Small Fish Costs Physician $1,000

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 7.—(INS)—It cost a Quincy physician $1,000 in cash and personal property because his small son was considerate of a fish he had caught.

Dr. Frank F. Rubin reported to police that his home was ransacked during the family's absence over the weekend. The thieves had entered by a bathroom window left open by Frank Jr., 8, who had filled the tub so the fish "could be comfortable."
